Philippine English is any variety of English (similar and related to English) native to the Philippines, including those used by the media and the vast majority of educated Filipinos. English is taught in schools as one of the two official languages of the country, the other being Filipino (Filipino). Due to the strongly bilingual and multilingual nature of the Philippines, code-switching such as ...

The Isabelline peso, more formally known as the peso fuerte, was a unit of account divided into 100 centimos (equivalent to 8 reales fuertes or 80 reales de vellón). Its introduction led to the Philippines' brief experiment with the gold standard, which would not again be attempted until the American colonial period. The peso fuerte was also a unit of exchange equivalent to 1.69 grams of gold ...
